NEW YORK (Standard & Poor's) Sept. 10, 2014--Standard & Poor's Ratings Services said that it raised its long-term rating on Powhatan County, Va.'s general obligation (GO) debt two notches to 'AA+' from 'AA-'. Standard & Poor's also raised its long-term rating on the Powhatan County Economic Development Authority's lease revenue bonds two notches to 'AA' from 'A+'. The outlook on both ratings is stable.

"The higher ratings are based on our local GO criteria released Sept. 12, 2013," said Standard & Poor's credit analyst Timothy Little.

"The 'AA+' long-term rating reflects our assessment of the county's very strong liquidity," he added, "along with its strong budgetary performance, supported by strong management conditions."

"The stable outlook reflects our expectation that Powhatan County will continue to adjust its budget to maintain structural balance while maintaining its very strong reserves," said Mr. Little. The underlying property wealth provides rating stability, as does access to the Richmond metropolitan area.

Upward rating potential is somewhat limited by the county's very weak debt profile and current economic factors. However, should operating performance weaken along with reserves, we may lower the rating. We do not anticipate changing the rating within the two-year outlook horizon.
